Ecast has selected Brady Distributing Company to carry its family of digital jukeboxes in Georgia and Alabama. Brady will distribute Ecast-powered models from NSM, Digital Fusion conversion kits from Amusement Technologies and the Ecast EQ high-def flat panel jukebox introduced at AMOA last year.

"Brady Distributing is a first-class organization and we very much look forward to our work together with them," said Scott Walker, VP network operations, Ecast. "We are confident the Brady team will quickly establish themselves in these new markets as they have done in their existing markets."

Dedicated to representing quality products and giving customers the best service possible, Brady Distributing Company is a full service distributor offering offers sales and service for over 70 manufacturers and serves as the Authorized Service Center for several of those manufacturers. Headquartered in Charlotte, North Carolina, Brady Distributing Company has additional branch offices Memphis, Tennessee, Miami and Orlando, Florida.

"Ecast has a solid national footprint and we intend to expand it further in GA and AL," stated Jon W. Brady, VP and secretary, Brady Distributing Company. "We have always been about providing a quality, full service customer experience and are eager to move forward with Ecast-powered digital music."
